YOUR MESSAGE MADE MOBILE

Company Overview

m-Qube enables world-class companies to build a mobile channel by providing the most comprehensive technology and services available in the market today. We create and deliver interactive content and applications to hundreds of millions of wireless subscribers for major brands, marketers and media companies. m-Qube provides a single interface for connectivity, content management, application development, monitoring, billing and cross-carrier transport.

Our strategic wireless partners include:

Products & Services

Mobile Storefront & Portal Services

With m-Qube, you can display, promote and sell any mobile content including ringtones, images, games, messaging, and other mobile applications. The product is available as a complete customer facing solution with Web, Wap and J2ME interfaces.

Mobile Gateway

With Mobile Gateway, you can deliver your content and messaging to 160 million wireless subscribers throughout North America. You can plug in an existing program/application into our Mobile Application Platform™ and gain access to our broad carrier network.

Mobile Studio

Mobile Studio is designed to enable organizations to leverage wireless as a marketing and communications channel, by using the already omnipresent text messaging.

As the North American market leader for outsourced, managed mobile services, m-Qube can provide unmatched reach and scale for mobile content, messaging and applications. Providing access to the wireless channel gives you an additional way to communicate with consumers about your products, increase brand strength and drive significant new streams of revenue.
